

Certified Lay Minister (CLM)

Overview

(Adapted from the Certified Lay Ministry Guidelines 2017, by Discipleship Ministries)

A certified lay minister is called and equipped to preach the Word, conduct public worship, care for the congregation, develop faith communities, lead small groups, or establish community outreach ministries as part of a ministry team with the supervision and support of a clergyperson. Much like a class leader in early Methodism, the certified lay minister enhances the quality of ministry to small-membership churches as part of a circuit or cooperative parish or by expanding team ministry in other churches and charges. As with lay ministry in early Methodism, the certified lay minister expresses his or her gifts as evidence of God's grace.

Why Do We Have Certified Lay Ministers?

According to ¶268.2 of The Book of Discipline of The UMC - 2016, we have certified lay ministers in order to:

- enhance the quality of ministry, much like a class leader did in early Methodism through service in the local church, circuit, or cooperative parish.
- expand team ministry in other churches or charges.
- use spiritual gifts as evidence of God's grace, as with lay ministry in early Methodism.

What Does a Certified Lay Minister Do?

The Book of Discipline of The UMC - 2016 tells us that a CLM as part of ministry under the supervision and support of a clergyperson:

- conducts public worship,
- cares for the congregation,
- assists in program leadership,
- develops new and existing faith communities,
- preaches the Word,
- leads small groups and
- establishes community outreach ministries.

How Do CLMs Work with a Ministry Team?

A CLM is not ordained or licensed clergy under appointment of the bishop. A CLM is a layperson certified for intentional leadership or assigned by the DS to a congregation or ministry. A CLM does not replace clergy — but works with clergy so that the congregation has the leadership necessary for vital mission and ministry. A CLM must be part of a ministry team.

Forming the Ministry Team

A CLM serves as part of a ministry team that should include the DS and/or supervising clergyperson assigned to guide the CLM, and a smaller group of three to five people in the local church referred to as a "mutual ministry team." Together, these people form the support necessary for the CLM to be effective in ministry. They are partners in ministry.

The mutual ministry team in the place of assignment develops the ministry covenant together to assure that there is a clear understanding of the expectations of the CLM and other members of the mutual ministry team.

The content of the ministry covenant captures the important details and basics that guide the ministry in that place. It covers areas such as: a short mission statement or description of the congregation and the purpose or role of the CLM, the congregation's ministry plan, the financial responsibilities to the CLM, ministry assessment and evaluation. For more information on the ministry covenant see Module 1 of the CLM Training Modules (Discipleship Resources). These modules are available through the Upper Room Online Bookstore.

CLMs are accountable to:

- the Conference Committee on Lay Servant Ministries for overall oversight,
- the District Superintendent and/or supervising clergy person for service,
- the District Committee on Ministry for interview and recommendation of certification,
- the supervisory group within the ministry setting who will conduct a ministry review.

Role of Conference/District Committee on Lay Servant Ministries

The committee certifies the candidates as a CLM. It reports annually to the AC through the Conference Board of Ordained Ministry a roster of all CLMs.

Ensures that:

- quality training/formation is provided,
- the process is followed,
- appropriate background checks/boundaries training are completed,
- the covenant is supported,
- CLMs are recognized and used,
- the team approach is valued.

Role of District Committee on Ministry

The district committee on ministry is the group given responsibility for interviewing and recommending certification of a lay minister. It is the committee's responsibility to see that:

- It understands CLM and its distinct relational ministry in the church. The dCOM must understand that it does not approve a ministry candidate in the traditional sense or ensure that the CLM knows everything about ministry before certification. Instead, the dCOM is a monitoring group to support the formation and accountability of the CLM.
- An interview is scheduled with the CLM. A CLM interview guide is available.
- Following the interview, the dCOM recommends or does not recommend to the Conference Committee on Lay Servant Ministries the certification of the lay minister.

Role of the Conference

The Associate Director of Lay Leadership Development works with the Conference Committee on Lay Servant Ministries, the Board of Laity and Board of Ordained Ministry to provide a consistent process for formation and use of CLMs.

Role of Board of Ordained Ministry and Board of Laity

Responsible for support, not certification. BOM has the responsibility to report annually to the AC for publication in the Journal a roster of all CLMs.

Role of DS

Responsible for assigning a CLM to a place of service. Ensures that a supervising clergy person/mentor is appointed to support the CLM and provide for the sacramental ministry of the congregation. Ensures completion of a psych evaluation if assigned to a congregation in a pastoral role as a DSA.

Modules 1-4

Discipleship Ministries and The General Board of Higher Education and Ministry have worked together to develop the basic coursework to prepare leaders for this form of ministry. In this case, certification provides a layperson with the training, support, supervision, and accountability needed to lead a congregation that either does not have a traditional clergy appointment or one that is developing team ministry.

Remember: Certification is intended to be an ongoing process, not an end in itself. So, you could honestly say that certification take a lifetime and begins with a placement!
